Department Comments: (attach additional pages if necessary)

Although the lighting is helpful for emergency response on main traffic areas, in the residential setting lights do not typically aid us more than normal vehicle lights. These lights do not illuminate the houses we are responding to and from a response prospective are not as necessary in these locations. I am sure, however, that with the number of people that walk late in the evening in this community, a concern for the areas that have paths needs to be addressed.
